Past performance does not guarantee future returns and potential for gains is accompanied by the possibility of loss. Leverage may be employed, which can make investment performance volatile and amplify potential gains or losses. An investor should not make an investment unless they are prepared to lose a substantial portion of their investment. The fees and expenses charged in connection with this investment may be higher than the fees and expenses of other investment alternatives and may offset profits. Opportunities for withdrawal and transferability of interests are restricted, so investors may not have access to capital when it is needed. The Fund/s managed may be concentrated and a lack of diversification may result in higher risk. A more complete description of these entities, and the inherent risks involved, can be found in a Private Placement Memorandum for each Fund, which a prospective investor should review thoroughly before investing. Fund interests are intended to be non-public and remain unregistered under the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act) and therefore offer and sale of interests must be conducted in accordance with legal restrictions.
